Downtown Development 2020

REVITALIZATION IS IN FULL SWING

Evansville's Downtown is in the midst of a renaissance that arguably began in 2011 with the opening of the Ford Center, a $127M multi-sport arena that replaced a similar facility that had been in use since 1956. City leaders choose to locate it in the new arena downtown with the idea of connecting it to a new convention hotel [$71.4M 241-room Doubletree added in 2017] and the refurbished convention center via sky bridge.

Tropicana has operated a gaming riverboat in Evansville since 1995 but when Indiana legislators approved land-based casinos in 2015, soon announced a $50M project to construct a 75k SF facility with restaurants, bars, lounges and a gaming area that opened in late 2017.

The increase in business and leisure travel attracted the developer of a 139-room Hyatt Place hotel under construction and a 72-room boutique hotel that is a redevelopment of a shuttered former hotel along the riverfront.

The Evansville Multi-Institutional Academic Health Science Education and Research Campus [often called the IU Med School for short] opened for classes in 2018. This $61M campus houses graduate and doctoral programs for Indiana University, University of Evansville, and the University of Southern Indiana, which will bring in thousands of students and faculty to downtown.

ABOUT SOUTHWESTERN INDIANA

Evansville is the county seat of Vanderburgh County, Indiana. The population was 117,429 at the 2010 census. As the state's third-largest city and the largest city in Southern Indiana, it is the commercial, medical, and cultural hub of Southwestern Indiana and the Illinois-Indiana-Kentucky tri-state area, home to over 911,000 people. The Evansville Metropolitan Area, the 142nd largest in the United States, includes four Indiana counties and two Kentucky counties. In 2008, Evansville was voted the best city in the country in which "to live, work, and play" by the readers of Kiplinger, and in 2009 the 11th best.

The broad economic base of the region has helped to build an economy that is known for its stability, diversity, and vitality. Three NYSE and three NASDAQ companies are headquartered in Evansville (ACW, BERY, LEAF, ESCA, ONB, SCVL). Major employers in the area include Alcoa, AK Steel, SABIC, Toyota, AT&T, Bristol-Myers Squibb, Guardian Automotive/SRG Global, Skanska, Mead Johnson, Peabody Energy, T.J. Maxx, St Vincent Hospital, Deaconess Hospital, and Tropicana Evansville.

Evansville is also known as a regional energy hub due to the significant presence of Vectren Energy, Babcock & Wilcox's Nuclear Operations Group, Global Blade Technology, numerous coal mines, several large ethanol and biofuel facilities, and a robust network of gas and oil pipelines. Evansville's strategic location on the Ohio River, strong rail and highway infrastructure, and its designation as a U.S. Customs Port of Entry, make it an ideal location for the transfer of cargo, including internationally. Chemicals make up 64% of international exports from the metro area, followed by transportation equipment (18%) and food manufacturing (5%).

The city has several well-known educational institutions. The University of Evansville is a small private school located on the city's east side, while the University of Southern Indiana is a larger public institution located to the west of the city limits. Other local educational institutions have also garnered praise and attention, including nationally ranked Signature School and the Evansville Vanderburgh Public Library.
